the two fall in love, but a pealous cowboy tries to make it appear that the hero has stolen money from the strill father. The former is chased by several cowboys, and everything is set for a lynching when the ranchman's daughter, after a thrilling run in a racing automobile, comes to his rescue. Then everybody's happy. Several other interesting films completed the programme. ORDER BARRING DRINKS

Daniels Quotes Fiske as Saying

"In the Trenches," a one-act playlet, leads the vaudeville part of the programme, which includes such specialties as Frankie Rice, impersonator of stage celebrities; Sarah Hyatt, offering popular songs; Fred and Lydia Weaver, swinging bar performers.

Besides a large chorus of girls the company is composed of Frank Hunter, Will Lester, Irving O'Hay, Charles Brown, Don Trent, Frankie Rice, Sarah Hyatt, Madge Darrell, Amelia Rivers and Flo Davenport.

Secretary Daniels replied at length to criticisms of himself made during the testimony of Rear Admiral Fiske, former Aide for Operations.

"Our first difference," said the Secretary, "was over the wine meas order. Admiral Fiske was greatly aggrieved. He said navy officers would go to using cocains. My only regret about the order is that I did not issue it on March 5, when I came into office, instead of waiting."

Mr. Daniels said he had been prompted to issue the order because of the many cases that came before him of young officers addicted to drink.
